Termination of Use:

These Terms and Conditions of Use are effective unless and until terminated by either you or Artius. You may terminate these Terms and Conditions of Use at any time, provided that you discontinue any further use of the Site. We also may terminate these Terms and Conditions of Use, in our sole discretion, at any time and may do so immediately without notice, and accordingly deny you access to the Site. Effect on Other Agreements:

Nothing contained in these Terms and Conditions of Use is intended to modify or amend any other written agreement you may have with Artius (including any customer agreement, participation agreement or account agreement) (collectively, "Other Agreements"), if any, that may currently be in effect. In the event of any inconsistency between these Terms and Conditions of Use and any Other Agreement, the Other Agreement will govern. Governing Law:

Headings used in these Terms and Conditions of Use are for reference purposes only and in no way define or limit the scope of the section. of Use will be made before a court of competent jurisdiction located in New York. If any provision of these Terms and Conditions of Use is held to be unenforceable, such provision will be reformed only to the extent necessary to make it enforceable. The failure of Artius to act with respect to a breach of these Terms and Conditions of Use by you or others does not constitute a waiver and will not limit Artius' rights with respect to such breach or any subsequent breaches.

Arbitration:

By using the Site, you agree that Artius, at its sole discretion, may require you to submit any disputes arising from the use of the Site, related services or these Terms and Conditions of Use concerning or, including disputes arising from or concerning their interpretation, violation, nullity, invalidity, non-performance or termination, as well as disputes about filling gaps in this contract or its adaptation to newly arisen circumstances, to final and binding arbitration under the International Rules of Arbitration of the American Arbitration Association, by one or more arbitrators appointed in accordance with the said rules. Notwithstanding these rules, however, such proceeding shall be governed by the laws of the state as set forth in the previous section.

Business Continuity Summary Disclosure Statement:

As part of its fiduciary obligation to its clients, and as a matter of best business practices, Artius has adopted policies and procedures for disaster recovery and for continuing Artius' business in the event of a disaster. These policies are designed to allow the Company to resume providing service to its Clients in as short a period of time as possible. These policies are, to the extent practicable, designed to address those specific types of disasters that Artius might reasonably face given its business and location. This plan covers two types of significant business disruptions ("SBD"):

- a local or internal significant business disruption (e.g., a fire in Artius' office building) that impacts Artius' ability to conduct normal business operations; and
- a more widespread significant business disruption (e.g., a terrorist attack or natural disaster) with a broader impact, that may, among other consequences, affect service providers to Artius and impede the operation of the capital markets.

Artius' first priority in responding to an SBD is to safeguard the lives of Artius employees. Artius will immediately seek to account for all employees, ensure their safety and communicate any relevant instructions to them. Artius has developed and implemented its Business Continuity and Disaster Recovery Plan designed, in the event of an SBD, to assess Artius' operational status, continue at least a minimally acceptable level of business performance in the near term and resume normal (or near-normal) business operations as soon as possible.

If you cannot contact Artius through normal channels, please check the Site for alternative means of communication.
